METALLIC TIE INVENTION

New Device is Offered by a Railroader Of Altoona

TRIAL WILL BE GIVEN

The Weak Points in the Previous Inventions Have Been Overcome in the New One.

THE DEVICE WILL BE A USEFUL ONE

One of the most serious problems confronting the railroads at the present time is that of ties, and it grows more serious each year. The life of a wooden tie is but a few years and the railroads are obliged to put forth every effort to keep up the supply. With an eye to the future, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has recently, at a great expense, acquired land and planted millions of seeds or saplings with a view of providing for the future when the forests shall be exhausted. But as was set forth in these columns some time ago, the insects have played havoc with the young trees and the railroad officials doubt their ability to meet the future demands in this way.

It is apparent therefore that the tie of the future must be a metallic one, and it looks as if B. C. Murray, of Altoona has at last solved the problem with which many other inventors have been wrestling without practical results.

Mr. Murry has invented and has had patented a tie which expert railroaders have carefully inspected and approved and it only awaits the test which is reasonably certain to establish it firmly as the thing for future railroad construction.

Mr. Murry's invention includes the tie and the fastener. It is simplicity itself and the ideas embodied in it are entirely different from anything heretofor contrived. In getting it up Mr. Murray sought to overcome the weak points of all the previous inventions. In the first place the device for holding the tie to the road bed is very simple. Its bottom is constructed with a protruding flange to keep it from shifting and at the same time making it very easily ballasted. No previous inventor appear to have thought of this and effective ballasting was out of the question. Important as is this idea, of still greater importance is the idea evolved by the inventor for holding the rail to the tie. The fastening clamp works with a pivot and with a key driven under the base of the rail, spreading the clamp at the bottom and bringing it in at the top of the rail's base.

Hanged Himself to Printing Press.

The most remarkable suicide ever known in Franklin County took place Thursday morning in the press room of the "People's Register," at Chambersburg when a boy of 16 years, David Shilling, took his life by hanging.

The lad tied his feet to the flywheel of a newspaper press with the jute twine used to tie the bundles of paper. He then tied the twine about his neck and fastened the end to a job press nearby.

Then slipping off the pulley wheel of the smaller press upon which he must have sat to do the work, his body hung suspended in a bow form, just escaping the floor, and he strangled to death.

The boy was employed in the office and was a son of Mrs. Anna Shilling. His father works in Philadelphia. The lad was subject to epileptic fits and was a reader of dime novels. He had made threats of hanging himself but they were not taken seriously.

Union Chapel at Coleville.

Work was commenced on the new Union chapel at Coleville on Monday by Jacob Cole and George Robb and the erection of the building will be rushed along as rapidly as possible. Mrs. Harry Rossman removed the first shovelful of ground from the celler and Miss Louise Miller carried the first stone from the Muncy mountain for the foundation. These people are showing much enterprise in the work of erecting a house of worship and deserve the support of the community. On Saturday evening, June 20 they are going to hold a festival, the proceeds of which will be for the benefit of the new chapel and should be liberally patronized.

SONS OF VETERANS ENCAMPMENT.

Annual Gathering of Patriotic Order at Williamsport a Successful One.

The annual encampment of the Pennsylvania division of the Sons of Veterans, U. S. A., which was held at Williamsport this week was one of the most successful and enthusiastic in the history of this patriotic order. The encampment opened last Sunday with religious services which were largely attended and prominent persons participated. The encampment was located near Valliamont park and was named camp Mehuish.

Monday was given over to preliminaries and routine work and all day delegates and Sons poured into the city from all parts of the state. A dress parade and flag presentation in the evening were interesting events of the day.

On Tuesday all interest was centred on the sham battle which was a mimic warfare for the capture of Williamsport, and thousands of people watched the maneuvers on Grampian hill, the stronghold of the Sons. Many companies of the Sons of Veterans Reserves, the military branch of the order, participated in the sham battle.

Wednesday was given to executive and business sessions by both the civil and military branches as well as the Ladies Auxiliary. Division Commander C. C. Fulton, of Mauch Chunck, presided over the deliberations of the business session and an address of welcome was made by Mayor Wolfe. In executive session it was reported that the past year had been a very successful one for the Sons of Veterans, and a rapid growth in membership. The Ladies Auxiliary gave a reception in the evening and the "Jolly Good Fellows" banqueted at the Windsor Cafe. Many prominent Ladies and Sons were in attendance at the reception and banquet.

Thursday was parade day and the march was participated in by the officers of the organization, reserve and civic, military bands, members of the G. A. R, state police, members of the city council and the mayor. H. E. Herman, of Williamsport, was chief-marshal. This practically closed the encampment many of the Sons returning to their homes that evening, others remaining to break camp.

Williamsport gave the Sons one of the most royal welcomes they ever received, the councils, board of trade and business men doing all in their power to make the Williamsport encampment a memorable one. During the week Tri-state championship ball games were played for the amusement of the many visitors to the city.

Mrs. John Rishel

Sara, wife of John Rishel, of Benner township, died at her home at Axe Mann Saturday evening. Mrs. Rishel was taken ill last August with cancer of the stomach and since that time has been a sufferer from that terrible affliction. Her condition grew worse from time to time and on Saturday evening about 7 o'clock she passed away.

Mrs. Rishel was a daughter of John and Susanna Hoy and was born at Jacksonville, this county, on February 29, 1833, making her a little over 75 years of age. For the past fifty-five years she has resided in Benner township where her husband was engaged in farming. She was a faithful member of the Methodist church, a devoted and loving mother and her friendship included all who knew her.

Her husband survives her and three children mourn the loss of their mother. They are Dr. G. P. Rishel, of Philadelphia; Alfred Rishel, of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Ellen Stover, of Axe Mann. The following brothers and sisters also survive; Hezekiah Hoy, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Samuel Fravel, of Jacksonville; Mrs. Annie Corman, of Zion; Mrs. Mary Miller of Bellefonte, and Mrs. John Houser, of Centre Hall.

Funeral services were held from the home Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. James B. Stein officiating and was assisted by Rev. John Hewitt. Interment was made in the Union cemetery, Bellefonte.

Salvation Army Picnic.

The Salvation Army will hold their picnic at Hecla Park on Wednesday, June 28. As there are many poor children and others in Bellefonte who would otherwise be denied the joys of the picnic season they are making an effort to have the poor children go with them. Captain and Mrs. Heather will thankfully accept all donations, however small, towards this outing. Our people should aid the Army in this effort to gladden the hearts of the children who would otherwise be compelled to remain at home. All are welcome to go along and enjoy the day.

BRUTAL WORK OF ITALIANS

Two Pittston Citizens Attacked Early Sunday Morning.

ONE MAN SHOT DEAD

Councilman and Citizen were Held up by Italians for Purpose of Robbery Assailants Were Arrested.

NANTICOKE ALSO SCENE OF SHOOTING.

Pittston, Pa., June 14th.—Park C. Lennard a highly respected citizen of this place was shot down and instantly killed at an early hour this morning, and William Vanderberk, a councilman of the same city in company with, him was fatally stabbed by two Italians

The men were on their way, unprotected when near a railway crossing the highwaymen stopped them for the purpose of robbery. As soon as the shot was fired several persons in the neighborhood ran to the scene and soon gave the alarm.

The assailants were arrested before they could get away.

For a time the greatest excitement prevailed and it was all the police could do to prevent the infuriated throng of citizens from lynching them.

Four other Italians who were seen with the assassins have also been placed under arrest.

They are all in jail waiting a hearing tomorrow morning.

Shortly after midnight last night John Kranichoski, aged 24 years, a well known Pole, was shot on one of the prominent streets in Nanticoke. The report of the revolver was heard by many people, some of whom saw the man fall to the sidewalk. When picked up he was unconscious and bleeding from a wound in the left side. He was removed to a hospital here this morning. Physicians say his wound will prove fatal.

During the excitement the assassin escaped.

Woodcock—Thompson.

A very pretty wedding took place in the Presbyterian church at Lemont Wednesday afternoon, when Rev. Jay Woodcock and Miss Mable Thompson were united in marriage. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion and nearly all of the 400 persons invited were present to witness the marriage ceremony which was performed by Rev. Armstrong of Williamsport. Dr. Lee Woodcock of Scranton a brother of the groom was best man and the bride's maid of honor was Miss Edith Wolverton.

The groom is a son of Rev. John A. Woodcock, formerly pastor of the the Bellefonte Presbyterian church and well known to the people of this place. The bride is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of William Thompson of Centre Furnace. After the ceremony an elaborate wedding reception was tendered the wedding party at the home of the bride's parents. The newly married couple drove to Bellefonte in the evening and departed on the 8.16 train on a wedding tour, after which they will return to Birmingham where the groom is stationed as pastor of the Presbyterian church.

A Going League.

This is the way the Lock Haven Express sees the Centre-Clinton league:

A word about the Centre-Clinton league. The article of ball the teams are putting up at present is about the best we have had in this neck'o'woods for some days. And the interest is really intense. If you don't believe it go over the circuit and see how the games are patronized, and how even old, gray haired men will jump up and down and root until their lungs are sore and their voices hardly audible above a whisper—rooting for their own boys. Of course, this is only natural, and the same conditions prevail in other localities, but it is something out of the ordinary for these parts to have a real, live base ball league. The Centre-Clinton league is going—and going good—and the players and all concerned deserve great credit for making it what it is.

SAD BURNING ACCIDENT.

Exploding Oil Can Results in Death of Mrs. Albert Eves and Son.

A sad burning accident occurred at Tyrone Tuesday forenoon when Mrs. Albert Eves and her little son were so badly burned that death resulted to both. It appears that Mrs. Eves had taken an oil can from a heated chimney closet and was in the act of unscrewing the cap when the can exploded, throwing the burning oil over both the mother and child. Both ran to the yard but before assistance reached them they were so horribly burned that the little boy died at 1.35 o'clock in the afternoon. A number of physicians were called to aid them but so serious were the burns that Mrs. Eves died about 11 o'clock Tuesday night.

The deceased whose maiden name was Florence Belle Funk, was born at Port Matilda December 13 1878 and was aged 29 years 5 months and 27 days She was an active member of the United Brethern church and was associated with the Ladies Aid society, president of the missionary society, a member of the Christian Endeavor and secretary of the official church board. She was married to Albert Eves in February 1896 and to them were born two children, Joseph Robert and Theodore, the latter being the one which was burned on Tuesday. She also leaves her mother, Mrs. Rachel Funk, and the following brothers and sisters to mourn her loss: John, Daniel F., Gerald Z., Mrs. E. H. Rothrock, Mrs. M. Lloyd Miller, all of Tyrone, and Mrs. M. B. Williams of Port Matilda.

The funeral of both mother and son were held Thursday at 2:30 o'clock in the United Brethern church, Rev. T. P. Orner officiating. Interment was made in the Grand View cemetery.

A Great Fruit Crop.

A splendid fruit crop is the promise of the first Government report on this subject. Already there is a strawberry crop that is a "pumper" in quantity and of unusual high quality. The cherry crop is all right, now partly harvested. The promise is for an enormous yield of peaches, more than double the crop of last year, and of apples an equal improvement. There will be pears, quinces and plums to spare. The later berry crops never promised better at this season.

All of this is important news and good. The first consideration is that consumers will have abundance of fruit at low prices and there will be replenishment of the stores of canned goods. The second factor is a large return to the producers. Ordinarily more attention is given the cereal, hay and cotton crops than to fruit as factors in the national income. True, they are staple and necessary. But the fruit crop is not to be despised. With many growers fruit is only a side issue, but with them its proceeds stand for that much net profit. Returns from fruit on the farm is money to spend. Other crops may provide necessities; fruit sales provide for comforts and luxuries. For this reason as much as for any other, good fruit crops spell general prosperity.

There is promise of good staple crops this year, all around. The hay crop is already assured and is very heavy. Barring accidents the others will do as well. And on top of these is a great fruit crop.

After Hokey Pokey Men

Dairy and Food Commissioner James Foust has received numerous complaints from a number of cities and towns to the effect that considerable sickness of children has been traced to the eating of so-called hokey pokey ice cream, ice cream sandwiches, frozen ideas, etc., which are peddled about the street and sold to the children for a penny apiece.

An investigation is now being made at Mahanoy City, different places in Luzerne county, as well as Altoona, Corapolis, Pittsburg and other sections of western Pennsylvania.

The commissioner said that his trouble is due to the unsanitary places in which these preparations are made more than to the use of chemicals.

Death at Salona.

George W. Esenwine, a well known and highly respected resident of Salona, died at his home in that place at 8:40 o'clock Monday morning, of asthma, aged 55 years. He had been ailing for about 20 years. He was at one time a resident of Lock Haven, but moved to Salona in 1884 and engaged in the implement business. He is survived by his wife, two sons, two sisters and one brother.

Funeral services was held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the house by Rev. Rearick.

STATE COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT

Baccalaureate Sermon on Sunday by Rev. J. K. McClurkin

ATTENDANCE IS LARGE

Inauguration of the New President Dr. Edwin Earle Sparks Takes Place Wednesday Forenoon.

ANNUAL RECEPTION IN THE EVENING

The forty-eighth annual commencement of the Pennsylvania State College formally began Sunday morning when the baccalaureate sermon was preached by Rev. John Knox McClurkin, of the Shady Side Presbyterian church of Pittsburg. His text was taken from St. Luke xiv, 10: "Friend, go up higher." During the day sacred concerts were given by the Cadet band, and an open air Y. M. C. A. meeting was held in the evening.

Monday was class day and the annual senior class exercises were held and also the junior oratorical contest. The Sophomore vs. Freshmen ball game and the field and track meet were athletic features of the day. The annual meeting of the board of trustees was held in the evening.

Tuesday was alumni day and the class reunions were the order of the morning. The alumni business meeting was held at ten o'clock and was followed by the business meeting of the Phi Kappa Fri Fraternity. At 11 o'clock the annual address was made to that society by Prof. A. A. Breneman, of New York. In the afternoon the delegates and alumni met for the election of trustees to serve for three years. Most of those whose terms had expired were re-elected. At 3 o'clock the alumni gave their annual parade, which was followed by the track and field events. In the evening the Thespians gave their play "The Toastmaster" in the auditorium.

On Wednesday evening the inauguration of the new president Dr. Edwin Earle Sparks took place. This was followed by the graduating exercises of the class of 1908. The inauguration day addresses were delivered in the afternoon at two o'clock in the auditorium by Dr. Alexandria Crombie Humphreys, President of the Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J. and Dr. Paul Shorey, head of the department of Greek at the University of Chicago. The inauguration and the graduating exercises were the leading events of the week and the attendance on this day was extraordinarily large.

The other features in connection with commencement day were a ball game in the afternoon and the informal reception to the commencement guests Wednesday evening from 5 to 6 at the president's house.

Auditors Threaten School Board.

The auditors of Gregg township and the school board are at loggerheads, and from reports received here have threatened to surcharge the school board. The trouble appears to have originated over the purchase of school supplies, late in the school year, which, it is claimed by the auditors, according to the Reporter's informant, were excessive in price in the minds of the auditors.

The auditors also refused to accept the accounts of the overseers of the poor and those of the supervisors claiming that the statements rendered were incomplete.

It appears that the auditors are insisting upon full and complete statements, rather than to insinuate that the accounts are incorrect or irregular. Centre Reporter.

Woolrich Player Had Appendicitis.

Andrew Litz, a son of Patrolman James Litz of the police department, submitted to an operation for appendicitis at the Lock Haven hospital on Sunday evening. The young man is an employe of the Queens Run brick works and is also an amateur base ball player, being a catcher of the Woolrich club of the Centre Clinton league. On Saturday he participated in two games, but later suffered a sudden attack of this disease and he was hurried to the hospital, where the surgeons decided to operate as he had had several previous attacks. A report from that institution today is that he is resting comfortably and is expected to recover in due time.—Express.

Post Card King Gets Busy Again.

Mr. George T Bush has just received two consignments from Germany consisting of eighteen thousand post cards of Bellefonte and vicinity among which are many beautiful views both in black and white and colors of the fine hand colored variety that makes his cards so famous. Among some of the subjects are "A shady drive near Bellefonte, Pa." a view of one of our pretty drives up Spring Creek. Four very pretty views on the Bald Eagle both above and below Milesburg. "The Old Furnace Wheel at Hecla" showing the ruins of the old furnace which at one time belonged and was run by Andrew Gregg one of Centre county's famous citizens of an early day and who at one time was president of the senate of the United States. A pretty view "Looking Down Water St," and another one is a picture of the picturesque drive up Old Nittany Mountain.

This lot brings the number of varieties of printed cards of Bellefonte and vicinity which covers several parts of the county that Mr. Bush has, up to over a hundred in number rivaling Philadelphia for variety. Mr. Bush has had published nearly two hundred thousand cards of Bellefonte and vicinity alone which is surely a record for a town of this size.

Academy Athletics.

Before the close of the Academy Friday the athletic association adopted a new constitution and elected officers as follows for the ensuing year: Clyde Oberlin, of Johnson City, Tenn., president; John South, of Bridgeport, Ohio, secretary, and J. R. Hughes, treasurer. They also elected Arthur Abrams, of Butler, foot ball manager; William Crooks, of Williamsport, base ball manager; Merril Walz, of Williamsport, basket ball manager, and Harold Stevens, of Reading, manager of the track team. The athletic advisory committee consists of Prof. J. R. Hughes, ex-officio, Prof. Arthur Sloop, coach, Prof. Charles Hall, Warren Elsey, of Pittsburg, and Thomas Thomas, of Scranton.

—The gratifying news has been received at State College that it has been placed on the list entitled to share in the Carnegie retirement fund for pensioning college professors who have taught a certain number of years. L. Thorton Osmond, dean of the school of mathematics and physics and the oldest professor in the college, has been named as entitled to receive a pension.

MOVE NOT TO RAISE RATES

Improved Conditions now Make Any Advance Unlikely

WON'T REDUCE WAGES

Railroad Officials Decide that it Would be Impracticable and Undesirable to do so

REVENUES ARE ON THE INCREASE

No general increase is likely to be made in freight rates by the railways of the country in the near future, if it be made at all. Certainly nothing will be done before next autumn, and it is unlikely now that anything approximating a general increase will be attempted then.

At a recent meeting of presidents and operating officials of important railroads held in New York, it was the consensus of opinion that it would be undesirable, if not absolutely impracticable, to put into effect at this time and increase in freight rates.

Opinion at the meeting was divided, but the majority inclined to the view that it would be bad policy and bad business at this juncture to attempt an increase of rates.

It was pointed out that the proposed increased in a time of depression, would tend rather to increase freight stagnation than to stimulate freight movement.

Most of the officials who attended the meeting indicated a belief that railway business conditions were improving.

Freight revenues—and the passenger revenues too, show a noticeable increase in the last month over the preceeding three months, and a general revival of business in all the industrial branches was reported from all over the country.

The judgment was expressed that if business conditions generally did not continue to show improvement, it would be necessary for the railroads of the country to adopt some method of protecting the interests of their stockholders.

Only two methods were suggested: An increase of freight rates and a decrease in wages of employes. It is quite certain that neither will be resorted to before the first of next October, and important officials believe it will not be necessary even then to resort to either of the methods.

Of course, when, if ever, the increase of rates is made, it will be carefully considered by the Inter Commerce Commission, perhaps on its own initiative without waiting for a formal complaint from shippers.

The Philipsburg Bridge.

County Commissioners J. L. Dunlap and C. A. Weaver accompanied by their attorney W. D. Zerby, were in Philipsburg on Wednesday to hold a meeting with the Clearfield commissioners in regard to the inter-county bridge in that place. In regard to the building of the bridge the Journal says:

After repeated attempts on the part of the Centre county commissioners to get the commissioners of Clearfield county together for business, it would seem that the meeting might bring forth something substantial as plans are now being looked into and examined and bids will likely be asked for shortly for a concrete or steel structure. The cost of the former would entail an expense of about $10,000, while the latter would only cost about $6000 or $7000. The difference in price is largely due to the fact that the abutments of the old bridge are found to be sound and intact, and to some of the commissioners it would seem extravagant to have these abandoned for concrete. The commissioners of our county feel that they are not to blame for the delay in building this bridge.

A Remarkable Accident

While the Pennsy's fast train, the Buffalo flyer which leaves Sunbury for Harrisburg shortly before four o'clock o'clock, was running along at the usual rapid rate of speed the tender of the engine suddenly jumped the track and the wheels of the trucks ran along over the ties alongside the rail.

The engineer on the alert quickly realized that something was wrong and brought the train to a stop when it was found that the tender was entirely derailed and had run over the top of the ties for quite a distance, held securely by the engine coupling. That a terrible accident did not happen seem a miracle.

After a short delay the tender was gotten back on the rails and the train proceed to Harrisburg.

In San Francisco.

Arrival of the Atlantic Fleet at the Golden Gate—The New Frisco — Battleship of the Salvation Army.

THE eyes of the nation are upon the great fleet of battleships which since its departure from Hampton Roads in January has skirted the coasts of South America and is now rapidly steaming toward the Golden Gate. The arrival of the fleet off the California coast is an event of much significance, and in recognition of this fact the itinerary was planned so as to give each coast city from San Diego to San Francisco a chance to see the warships. It was arranged that at all points where no stop was scheduled the fleet should pass as close to the shore as possible. So far the only bombardment the fleet has encountered has been one of flowers on reaching the coast of southern California. When the noble vessels sweep in imposing pageant through the Golden Gate their arrival at the port of the metropolis of the Pacific will signalize the successful completion of the first part of their important and unprecedented cruise. It will also serve as a celebration of the rising of San Francisco like the fabled phenix from its ashes, for it is barely two years since earthquake and flame overwhelmed this great community, and now it is rebuilt on a far grander and more beautiful scale than that of the old city. The San Francisco which welcomes the nation's gallant tars to western waters is in every way a better city than the old, and the pluck and determination shown by its citizens are typical of American courage, whether displayed on ship or on shore, in war or in peace.

Between April 18 and 20, 1906, earthquake and holocaust wiped out five square miles of San Francisco. This meant the destruction of about 28,000 buildings, valued at over $100,000,000. The struggle made by San Francisco to rise from its ruins is part of the history of the nation. Its citizens, with stout hearts and characteristic western energy, went to work to rebuild the desolated tract where their homes and places of business had stood, and now, two years after the great earthquake, 10,000 new structures have been erected, which are valued at more than those burned down or otherwise ruined. While the new buildings represent about $6,000,000 more than the original loss, yet little of the capital necessary for their erection came from outside of the city. The total loss by fire was $500,000,000, and the insurance recovered was $198,000,000. In rebuilding it is found that the 10,000 new structures will provide more space than the 28,000 burned structures did. Moreover, they are a great improvement over those destroyed.

An auxiliary supply of salt water for fire protection has been installed, which includes the use of fireboats and large reservoirs in elevated positions throughout the city. There are now over forty new hotels in the burned district. Chinatown has been rebuilt on an improved plan.

The new city is preparing on a grand scale for the arrival of the tars who are soon to cross the Pacific. Among the novel things devised in their honor is the Salvation battleship, named Conqueror, built by the Salvation Army and recently christened by Mayor Edward R. Taylor. It is on the water front in a block where there are six saloons. A sign says:

"This ship was built by the Salvation Army for the especial benefit of the boys of the United States fleet." The main deck contains a free reading room and a large auditorium.

The fleet will be reviewed by Secretary Victor H. Metcalf, head of the navy department, on Friday, May 8 and it is hoped that Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans will by that time have sufficiently recovered from his severe attack of rheumatism to assume command again. When the fleet enters the harbor it will be received by a concourse of half a million people on the six miles of hills and bluffs surrounding the anchorage, and the word "Welcome" in flaming electric letters each fifty feet high will stretch across Telegraph hill. Mayor Taylor and the reception committee will make their official call on the admirals on board their ships, and the next day the call will be returned by the naval officers. There will be many functions ashore, the chief of which will be a grand banquet at the Fairmount hotel on the evening of May 7, upon the decorations of which $20,000 is to be expended. Over $69,000 has been raised for entertaining the men of the fleet.

NOMINATION OF TAFT ASSURED

Secretary Has 13 More Delegates Than Necessary.

VICE PRESIDENT NOW

The Centre of Interest in Chicago—All Danger of a Roosevelt Stampede is Now Past.

PLATFORM PLAN AGREED TO BY ALL

The Republican National Committee at Chicago gave to Secretary Taft thirteen more delegates than are necessary to win him the nomination. He has now 504 instructed delegates. To nominate 491 votes are required. The nomination of Mr. Taft on the first ballot is so universally conceded that discussion and speculation are centered on the Vice-Presidency and the organization of the next National Committee.

There is a timid suggestion once in a while that a Roosevelt stampede may yet be started, but such a suggestion meets with jeers and laughter. The stampede danger is now past.

Senator Foraker was given one delegate from Ohio. This is the first decision of the National Committee that has not been altogether in favor of Mr. Taft.

The contest was in the Sixth Ohio District and the committee decided to give the contesting delegates one-half vote each, which means a whole vote each for Foraker and Taft in that district.

All other Ohio contests were decided in Taft's favor as were all those taken up by the committee today.

As to the Vice-Presidency everything is "up in the air." One of the long distance telephone messages from Washington today suggested that it was wise to "let matters rest for a while," indicating that the process of "trying out," in public sentiment, the popularity of those already mentioned was in operation.

Word came from Washington that the Dolliver flag had better be lowered, accompanied by a tip that Cortelyou was again in favor as a candidate. The word today "to let matters rest" is the latest phase of the situation.

The Picnic Season

The old-fashioned picnic has almost disappeared. No longer is Copenhagen, that strenuous osculatory diversion, the chief event of the day. The egg race and the greased pole are obsolescent. All the simple and unsophisticated pastimes of other years are disappearing. Instead, the picnic of today is a collection of ingenious devices for extracting nickels from the pockets of knickerbockers and pin-money from pinafores All this is to be regretted. It encourages spendthrift habits in young folks; it discourages originality and self-dependence in seeking saner and more healthful amusement. A foot-race is more exciting and inspiring than shooting the chutes all afternoon. To weave daisy chains is better employment for little fingers than trying to ring canes

Yet, though the old fashioned picnic joys are mostly gone, the new-fangled picnic has not displaced them all. The lunch basket still has its delightful mysteries; the uncertainties of the weather still induce pleasant trepidation, the happy, streaked and tired faces still reflect the old light the old light of vacation ecstasy. The machine made mercenary entertainments of our parks cannot exterminate these ancient and acceptable corollaries of the great occasion. The picnic will be with us as long as juvenile humanity retains its lungs and legs.

Score One for W. C. T. U.

Owing to inability to get a suitable place for the alleys on which will be rolled the national bowling championship in Pittsburg in October, the National Bowling Congress has a hazy look just now.

The W. C. T. U. is blamed by the bowlers there for pernicious activity. H. C. Frick has refused to rent to the bowlers a nice vacant lot in the heart of the city, on which they desired to erect special alleys for the tournament. The location is within reach of many saloons, and the saloon proprietors offered to donate handsomely if the bowling was within reach of the bars.

The committee, however, has been compelled to accept Duquesne Garden, which is miles from the citys center, and about one mile from any saloon. So angered have the saloon keepers become that many of them are with-drawing their subscriptions. One downtown saloon keeper said he would donate $10,000 for the bowling downtown, but not a cent for the suburbs.

Miss the Easy Road.

Two young exponents of the strenuous life on Broadway were sitting in a hotel lobby the other evening discussing their plans for making some "big money" in the future. One of them confessed that his salary was "only $45 a week," and he was having a hard time of it in keeping the wolf from the door. Sitting near them was an old gentleman who overheard their conversation and was evidently interested.

"You fellows are making the mistake of your lives," the old gentleman said at last. "You are chasing the will o' the wisp while you have the means of wealth within your grasp. Why, I'm considered pretty well off financially, as you both know, and I never received a salary of $45 a week in my life. But I saved money when I was your age, and I found opportunities for investment that soon put me out of the salary class and made me a business man on my own account. The trouble with young fellows nowadays is that they can't see the opportunities that are given them. They have their eyes glued to the get-rich-quick idea so tightly that they pass by the only sure route to wealth."—New York Globe.

Handwriting.

As a rule, clear handwriting is more common with persons who do not write for a living than with those who do. Authors, for example, are creating something when they write; the mind is concentrated on this creative work; their thoughts are generally ahead of their hand, sometimes a whole sentence, and they hurry to keep pace with them. The result is bad handwriting, but handwriting with individuality in it, if not character. There is a theory that plain writing is most easily forged. This is not true. Obscure signatures are most easily forged and the so called freak signatures, which nobody can read, easiest of all. The best signature and the safest for a man who signs checks is neither too prim nor too involved; just plain, everyday writing, done in the easiest way, according to his temperament. Such a signature expresses as much character as any handwriting can, but it doesn't tell us a thing about the man's moral makeup; not a thing.—Boston Globe.

Wanted His Dues.

A reservation Indian was disconsolate over the breaking of his ax handle. He laid his misfortune before the "farmer" of the reservation, who, through pity, took a new handle from his private stock and adjusted it to the ax. The farmer then noticed that the ax was shockingly dull. So, motioning the owner to turn the grindstone, he expended a half hour's time in sharpening the blade. When the rehabilitated ax was given to the Indian he was childishly gleeful, but still lingered about, indicating by his actions that some feature of the transaction had not been adjusted.

The farmer was a little annoyed and called to an interpreter. "Ask the old fellow what he wants now," he directed.

After an exchange of grunts and gestures the interpreter announced, "He wants 25 cents."

"Twenty-five cents! What for?"

"For turning the grindstone."—Harper's.

The Other Way.

There was a hopeful gleam in the eyes of the young man with a slightly retreating chin as he approached the father of his ladylove.

"Will you give your daughter to me in marriage, sir?" he asked in as firm a tone as he could muster.

"I'm afraid you are not well enough acquainted with her, young man," remarked the father.

"Why, I've seen her twice a week for nearly a year," said the astonished suitor.

"That may all be," said the parent. "but if you knew much about her character you'd have said, 'Will you give me to your daughter in marriage?'"

A Poet's Slip.

A correspondent of London Notes and Queries has "caught out" Mr. Kipling in an extraordinary blunder. He finds it in the "Last Chantey" in these lines:

Then said the souls of the slaves that men threw overboard:
"Kenneled in the picaroon a weary band were we,
But thy arm was strong to save,
And it touched us on the wave,
And we drowsed the long tides idle till thy trumpets tore the sea."

"Of course," says the commentator, "the word Kipling meant to use was barracoon, the technical term for a slave pen. Picaroon means a rogue."

Catching a Cobra.

A driver on the Avontuur railway, South Africa, while staying at the Gamtoos caught a large cobra de capello alive. The cool way in which he did the trick, says a local paper, sent a cold shiver through every one who saw it. He simply caught hold of the point of its tail, gave it a sudden jerk toward him and caught it by the back of the head. He then placed it in a biscuit tin. The snake was three inches in diameter and about four feet long.

Headache Tablets Kill Child.

Marion, the three-year-old daughter of Lewis Wilson, of Upper Sandusky, O., found some headache tablets at her home and ate about half a dozen of them. Within a few minutes she was taken with convulsions and despite efforts of several doctors to save her life died within an hour.

North Carolina Votes Dry.

North Carolina was carried for state Prohibition by a majority that is estimated at from 40,000 to 42,000. The Prohibition ticket has carried seventy-eight out of the ninety-eight counties by majorities approximating 48,500.

Saturday Base Ball.

Saturday last was a remarkable day in the Centre—Clinton league and the results of the games on that day were surprising to many. There was a decided change in the standing of the clubs and much to the surprise of everybody the Woolpickers took a double header from the Red Roses of Beech Creek. In the forenoon at Woolrich the game was very interesting and exciting from start to finish and the score, which was 2 to 1 brought joy to the hearts of the Woolpickers and the Woolrich fans. In the afternoon they went at it with renewed vigor and after a hard struggle the Red Roses were worsted by the Woolpickers by the score of 9 to 3. There was much rejoicing in Woolrich Saturday over these two signal victories and hereafter when the other teams cross bats with the Woolpickers they will not consider them such easy picking. Woolrich and Mill Hall are now tie at the bottom and next Saturday's game between the Ponies and the Woolpickers promises to be one of the most interesting of the season as the Woolpickers will make the effort of their lives to move from the bottom of the list, a position which they held since the beginning of the season.

While Woolrich was covering herself with glory with the scalps of Beech Creek the Orvis Mountaineers and Mill Hall Ponies were raising a dust on the Orvis diamond, the Mountaineers defeating the Ponies by the easy score of 10 to 2.

More interest was centered in the Howard—Snow Shoe game on account of the abrupt ending of their last one and the game was one of the best played of the season. Both sides were at their best and the Millionaires made a batting and fielding record, which if they maintain will bring them the penant at the close of the season. After a hard struggle from beginning to end the the Millionaires finally defeated the Coal Barons by the close score of 3—2. The score.

An interesting scholastic game of ball was played at State College Saturday afternoon between the State team and the Western University of Pa. From the very beginning it was evident that a struggle was on and it was very seldom that a runner got beyond first base. While the playing was excellent on both sides it was merely a walk to and a walk out. The game was not confined to the pitchers but excellent field work was telling on both sides. At the beginning of the ninth inning neither side had scored a run and it was then that the game became more interesting than ever, but when the W. U. P. had their inning no runs were made. The State batters came up with a somewhat confident air and by their excellent work with the stick and two errors by the W. U. P. fielders one of the State players succeeded in reaching the home plate, scoring the only run made. The game was largely attended by the fans from Bellefonte.

The Millheim team was defeated on Saturday morning by the Mifflinburg team at Mifflinburg by the score of 7—5.

What's in a Name.

When the Howard base ball team, known as the "Millionaires", and a bunch of the fans boarded the train at that place Saturday morning to go to Snow Shoe they were assigned to a special car and much to their surprise when they reached Snow Shoe Intersection the car was cut off and attached to the Snow Shoe train. The conductor informed others that the car was for the ball players and not until after they left the Intersection were others allowed to enter, the manager of the ball team telling the conductor they had some Bellefonte friends on the train who would like to come into the car and talk base ball. The train returning from Snow Shoe in the afternoon was held until the game was over so as to allow the Howard people to return to their homes that evening. They reached Bellefonte about five o'clock Saturday evening not only elated over the victory on the diamond in the afternoon but also over the fact that there must be something in the name "Millionaires."

Denver Very Busy.

Colorado's Capital Is Making Ready For the Coming of the Democratic Delegates In July. The Convention Hall.

DENVER is making big preparations for the coming of the Democrats of the nation on July 7 to nominate a candidate for the presidency. For some months the city has been busy with the plans for the entertainment of the expected visitors, and Denver and the whole state of Colorado are looking forward to the event with enthusiasm. Citizens of Denver contributed $100,000 toward the expenses of the convention and will spend more than that before they get through probably in giving their guests the time of their lives. The City Auditorium, which is now nearing completion, will afford an ideal meeting place for the assemblage, and it will be possible for more persons to witness the proceedings and hear the speeches than has been possible at former conventions. The seating arrangements in the hall are completed already. There are to be 11,521 chairs in it in regular rows, and by placing additional chairs in the aisles and in space left for standing room it will be possible to seat 14,000 people. This is a greater seating capacity than that of the Chicago Coliseum, the Madison Square Garden, New York, or the Mormon temple in Salt Lake City.

The work of getting ready for the convention in July is under the direction of the committee of arrangements of the Democratic national committee and of local committees. The former committee is headed by ex-Governor John E. Osborne of Wyoming. The local committees are giving special attention to the arrangements for accommodating all who may come. Names of those who are expected are secured, so far as possible, in advance, and proper quarters are provided for them. Denver has 150 hotels, mostly modern structures of brick and stone and in general as well equipped as any hotels in the United States. In addition there are numerous apartment and rooming houses, and many private families expect to open their homes to visitors on the occasion of the convention. A big attendance is looked for in part because a great many people will doubtless take occasion to visit Denver at the time of the convention and incidentally see the sights of that part of the country. Many side trips can be made easily from the capital of Colorado to points famous for their scenic charms or for their human interest, such as Pike's peak, the Royal gorge and the gold fields of the Cripple Creek district. One of the excursions which are popular is that offered by a railroad giving a trip of sixty miles in both directions, affording passengers the opportunity to stop at various points and gather the magnificent mountain wild flowers which abound.

There is no such thing as Democrat or Republican in Denver when it comes to civic pride and work for the general good of the city. Republicans are working with Democrats in the movement to give every person who visits Denver a good time. Under the inspiration of the example of the mayor, R. W. Speer, who is untiring in labors for the municipality, the citizens generally are preparing to do their full duty in the matter of hospitality. There has been a remarkably united effort to increase the beautiful appearance of the city. Twenty thousand shade trees were planted under the direction of the municipal authorities this spring, and a contest has been arranged by virtue of which a prize will be awarded for the lawn which is kept best during the coming summer. Ornamental gates and columns have been planned as permanent features in the beautification of the city, and special arches and columns have been erected by way of welcome to the guests of July. Denver has long outgrown the characteristics of a mining camp. It is a city with sixty-five graded schools, including four high schools; 180 churches, a public library of 100,000 volumes and a manufacturing output estimated last year at nearly $200,000,000.

A LOVELORN PRINCE.

The Scion of French Nobility Who Wooed and Won Mme. Anna Gould.

Prince Helie de Sagan did not enjoy his recent visit to this country extremely because of the profuse attentions of the newspaper men and photographers. Nevertheless he seems to have succeeded in the main object of his trip, which was to secure the hand of Mme. Anna Gould, a daughter of the late Jay Gould and formerly the wife of Count Boni de Castellane. According to some authorities, the prince and Mme. Gould played a neat trick on the reporters and camera men by getting married secretly about midnight in Hoboken, N. J., just prior to their departure from America by separate steamers for their respective homes in France. It was a justice of the peace, according to this story, who tied the knot binding together a scion of the ancient French nobility and a daughter of the house of Gould. At any rate, as if to make assurance doubly sure, there is to be a wedding in France by a Protestant minister, a marriage by a Roman Catholic priest being out of the question because of Mme. Gould having secured a divorce from her former husband and remarriage in such a case not being permitted by the Roman Catholic church. June 14 has been set as the date of the civil and religious ceremonies, and it is said that the parties to the contract will each remain in absolute control of their respective fortunes.

Prince Helie de Sagan is famous as a duelist and as a swell. The accompanying portrait is from a snapshot, which gives a good idea of his jauntiness of appearance.

The Armenians.

The history of Armenia is not cheerful reading. With the exception of occasional brief periods, the Armenians have been almost continually under some foreign rule. Assyrians, Babylonians, Medes, Persians, Macedonians, Romans, Parthians, Saracens, Mongols and Turks have each in turn dominated the country, and of all these successive foreign yokes the present one, that of the Turks, has been the longest and the heaviest. The highest activities of the Armenian people today are not to be found in Armenia proper, but rather in the marts of prominent cities the world over. This is especially noticeable in Constantinople, Smyrna and other cities of the Levant, where the marked aptitude of the Armenian in business enables him practically to dominate the commercial situation. One example is the oriental rug trade, which is practically controlled by Armenians not only in the east itself, but also in many western countries.—Argonaut.

How Sandy Fooled Sandy.

An old gentleman in a village not far from Glasgow breakfasted every morning on porridge and in order to save fuel cooked a whole week's supply every Saturday. One Friday morning the stuff seemed very cold and very salt, and he felt he must abandon the struggle to eat it. But his stubborn nature forbade any such thought, so he fetched the whisky from the cupboard, poured out a glass and placed it before him on the table.

"Now, Sandy," said he, "if ye eat that parritch ye'll hae that whisky, an' if ye don't ye won't."

He stuck again at the last spoonful; but, keeping his eye steadily on the glass of whisky, he made a bold, brave effort and got it down. Then he slowly and carefully poured back the whisky into the bottle, with a broad grin, as he said to himself, "Sandy, my lad, I did ye that time, ye auld fule!"—Dundee Advertiser.

His School.

"Have you a college diploma?"

"No, but I have several mining stock certificates that I might frame and hang up as evidence that I have been through the school of experience."—Exchange.

The habit of looking at the best side of every event is worth more than a thousand a year.—Johnson.

The Making of Diamonds.

It is quite possible to manufacture diamonds. Indeed a famous Frenchman of science, Moissan, made very large numbers by means of his electric furnace. His process was to dissolve lumps of sugar in molten iron, subjecting the solution to enormous pressure. Lump sugar may be said to consist simply of water and diamond. It is the case that the diamond is merely crystallized carbon. There are three kinds of carbon—charcoal, graphite and diamond—the composition of all of which is identical. When charcoal is dissolved in molten iron, graphite is formed. All the diamonds found in Borneo, Brazil, India and South Africa are made in much the same manner—that is, by the action of great heat and enormous pressure. Charcoal formed from wood has been baked into diamonds, the enormous heat and pressure of the earth's interior causing the beautiful white stone to crystalize out. Although artificial (distinct from imitation) diamonds have been made for some time, the cost has been prohibitive, while the stones have been of but insignificant size and value.

Fastidious Smokers.

"Did you know," asked one member of a group in the hotel lobby, "that an Indian is much more fastidious than a white man in the matter of smoking? I saw when I was in Montana several of their war dances and the councils afterward. You know, they sit in a circle on the ground and pass the pipe of good fellowship around in silence. Each man takes two or three puffs and then hands the pipe to his next neighbor. But if you notice you will see that in the whole circuit which it makes the mouthpiece is never wet. The red man merely lays the end of the stem against his lower lip and, keeping his mouth partly open, draws a deep breath. Removing the pipe, he exhales the smoke and then perhaps repeats the process, but he never puts the mouthpiece into his mouth in the common 'paleface' fashion. If he is asked to smoke a peace pipe after a white man, he first wipes off the end of the pipestem where it has been in the previous smoker's mouth."—New York Times.

The Lecturer's Subject.

"I call my lecture 'Glass,'" said the lecturer, "not because it says anything about that subject, but because of the nature of it. To begin with, it is the sort of lecture that anybody can see through. Then I am liable to make a number of breaks in its delivery, after which it will be full of funny cracks. In addition, it requires a lot of sand to produce it, to say nothing of the hot air employed. The agents have blown it pretty much to the committees.

"Another point of resemblance between my lecture and glass is that when cut it is much more valuable. I shan't refer to the subject any more, though it is not a safe one to drop. The principal reason for my selection of this name anyway is my knowledge of the fascination foreign titles have for the American people."

But noticing that the audience had hurried away the lecturer desisted.—Chicago News.

A Dangerous Feat.

For a feat of dexterity and nerve it would be difficult to surpass that of the Bosjesman of South Africa, who walks quietly up to a puff adder and deliberately sets his bare foot on its neck. In its struggles to escape and attempts to bite its assailant the poison gland secretes a large amount of the venom. This is just what the Bosjesman wants. Killing the snake, he eats the body and uses the poison for his arrows.

The Vote That Counted.

"And what was your family's decision?"

"Practically unanimous in my favor," answered the young lawyer, "mother voting aye and father dissenting."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Waifs Who Became Famous.

The list of waifs who have become famous, says the Delineator, is a long one. It includes Sir Henry Stanley, Queen Catherine the Good, Alexander Hamilton, Rosa Bonheur, Edgar Allan Poe, Rachel, Leonardo da Vinci and dates back as far as Moses. All these were homeless children—children who if left to their fate would undoubtedly have drifted into evil ways. Instead they have lived to add glory to their names and have contributed to the knowledge of the world at large through the fruits of their genius.

Smartness.

Do not be "smart." Whenever you see any of your mates showing signs of "smartness" in his work, his talk or his play take him by the hand, or both hands, or by the back of the neck, if necessary, and lovingly, playfully, but firmly, lead him to a knowledge of higher and more interesting things. In these words of Mr. Kipling is presented the gospel of real life, of common sense and of enlightened experience.—New York Outlook.

Disease and Remedies.

It is almost a truism among physicians that the intractability of a disease may be measured by the number of "infallible" remedies for it which from time to time have been recommended.—London Times.

Sociologist Defined.

"Uncle Henry, what is a sociologist?"

"A sociologist, my boy, is a person who can inspect a garbage can and find enough material in it for a long lecture on the needs of society."—Chicago Tribune.

IN view of all the warnings that have been spoken and printed, men who permit themselves to be victimized by sharpers have only themselves to blame.

ANTHONY Comstock declares the "sheath gown" will not be permitted in New York. At his age Mr. Comstock should know the final decision on that question remains with the ladies. "If they will, they will,"

A MAN should be merciful to dumb animals especially horses, at all times, but the summer season is when the beasts of burden shold receive especial consideration. A man who will beat his horse without extreme provocation should be given a course before a justice of the peace.

THE National Brewers Association in a convention at Milwaukee, sought to secure the adoption of plans that will drive the dives and low groggeries out of business. The spirit of inquiry which has been stated by the anti-saloon agitation, has brought the reputable hotel men throughout the country to realize that their worst enemies are within their own ranks.

THE state pure food authorities are acting with commendable promptness in investigating the complaints that have been made relative to the ice cream which is sold by the street venders. Nevertheless, it will take sometime to collect samples and have the necessary analysis made so that in the meantime parents will act wisely if they have their children patronize dealers as little as possible. Ice cream, if made in unsanitary surroundings, is likely to be very dangerous to health and the wise person will never eat it unless he knows just where it came from.

"The Original Commercial Sin."

Since the beginning of recorded history it has been regarded as immoral to attempt to get something for nothing. This is true whether the attempt be in the form of petit larceny, burglary, highway robbery or the more subtle forms of stealing, such as selling "gold bricks" and other articles of alleged value which nothing or at least less than is purported on their face,

I believe that to the evil of watering stocks can be very largely traced most kinds of graft, both public and private, also the great financial upheavals and the prolonging of the resultant business depressions. The practice of issuing securities and stocks, with only partial value or no value at all back of them has been so common in this country as to callous public sentiment to the extent that many otherwise reputable people see no wrong in engaging in the issue and sale of stocks of this kind. The worst feature of the public indifference is the common belief that there is no legal remedy. In my opinion the wrongs growing out of the watering of stocks are infinitely more far-reaching than the evils of intemperance. As a matter of fact, remedies have been found in other countries and what has been done there can be done here. All that is required is a public awakening and realization of the people's losses and wrongs following in the wake of this corporate piracy.

The dog poisoner is again at work in Bellefonte, but while there many worthless curs that should be disposed of we do not approve of this means of getting them out of the way. The good dogs usually get it.

THAT it is a mistaken economy to neglect keeping public highways, sidewalks or bridges in good condition at all times has been proved time and again and yet such neglect continues. A claim was recently presented to the York county commissioners by a man who stepped through a bridge and broke his wooden leg.

COMMENTING on the dynamiting of trolley cars as an outgrowth of the trolleymen's strike in Chester, the Chester Times very aptly says. "The rioters and law breakers who are dynamiting trolley cars should remember that they are not doing damage to the trolley cars, but to the taxpayers who will be called on to pay for all damage done to the property of the company. In fact it is really helping, the company to get new cars in the place of old ones. The taxpayers of the county will have to pay for cars damaged outside of the city limits; the taxpayers of the city for those damaged inside of the city limits."

THE most important reform movement in recent years is the abolition of race track gambling in the state of New York, and to Governor Hughes is due the credit for the successful result of the crusade. That official fought the battle tenaciously and bravely and the whole nation will applaud. Of course the gamblers will resist the wiping out of their iniquitous business and will resort to every subterfuge and trickery in order to defeat the ends of the law, but Governor Hughes is equal to the emergency. Race track gambling has been squelched and if Governor Hughes accomplishes no more during his administration he will have earned the gratitude of decent and law-respecting citizens not only of his own state but of the entire country.

The Pardon of Powers.

It is a sinister commentary upon the state of public feeling in Kentucky that the freedom of Caleb Powers depended upon the inauguration of a republican governor, although the world believed the prisoner of eight years three times tried and once sentenced to death, to be as innocent as any juror or judge who tried him and the victim of foul wrong. Doubtless there are many people in Kentucky, such is the spell of political hate, who will always believe in the guilt of Caleb Powers, but Governor Wilson cannot be charged with precipitancy. He has taken almost two months to pass upon the application for pardon, and his reputation for legal ability and fairness is so high that there is no reason to doubt that his decision of the case was strictly upon its merits and not made as charged by political opponents in a spirit of republican partisanship.

Work and Sleep.

In these odorous June nights when nature is sending out her subtlest perfumes for the soothing of man's irritated tissues, the saddest being in humankind is the one who cannot sleep. Insomnia stalks like an avenging spectre and stands beside the head of the bed jabbing him with invisible darts, twitching at the muscles of his limbs, breathing with hot fumes upon his head. Many persons suffer from sleeplessness and the question with them is always: "What will make me sleep?" The doctors may say this or that will produce sleep. Their remedies may or may not prove effective. The man of general good health who works hard, lives frugally and in every way follows the plain path of duty, without indulgence, rarely is troubled by sleeplessness. Generally speaking good honest work banishes the specter, and the man who has toiled honestly and joyously and well finds his eight hours a night in bed a period of restful oblivion, from which he rises as one come out of nirvana, strong and alert and happy.

THE drowning record had several additions during the past week, and as usual they were the result of sheer carelessness or recklessness.

STATE Treasurer Sheatz does not know anything about his gubernatorial boom, which Pittsburg dispatches state will be inaugurated in a few days. But the custodian of the State's funds has been so busy lately that a little thing like a gubernatiorial boom might roll down upon him without attracting his attention.

A NEW method by which the audience at a theater can show its approval or disapproval of a play without disturbing the performance is being introduced by the Italian dramatist, Traversi. Before leaving the theatre every person is to drop a ticket into one of three boxes marked "good," "indifferent" and "bad." This will be quite an improvement over the American way of dropping eggs that failed to hatch as evidence of disapproval.

MARTYRS TO ETIQUETTE.

Some Stern Laws In Foreign Lands. Siamese Manners.

It is astonishing how many strange mediaeval forms of etiquette have survived to rank among the greatest tribulations of royal families of the present time. When the present king of Spain was a child of seven he was playing in the palace at Madrid and pitched headlong down the great marble staircase. Undoubtedly he would have been killed had not a footman standing on one of the landings rushed forward and caught him. The next moment the footman realized with horror that he had committed a serious crime by laying hands on his sovereign.

The stern laws of etiquette at the court compelled his dismissal in disgrace despite the gratitude of the queen and the royal family. The queen mother, however, gave the man a sum of money with an annuity for life and appointed him a gatekeeper on one of her private estates, but he was never again quite the same. He could never forget the disgrace that his absentmindedness had brought upon him.

The same rule of etiquette was responsible for the death of a queen of Siam, wife of the present king, who celebrated his birthday so munificently in Homburg recently. The present queen of Siam, by the way, is the king's half-sister, was formerly only the second queen, and another half-sister of the king shared his throne as principal wife and first queen. She perished almost twenty years ago. While embarking one evening on board her state barge for a trip on the river Menam, on the shores of which Bangkok is built, she fell overboard.

For any one but the king to have touched her in attempting her rescue would have constituted a violation of the laws of etiquette, punishable with death in its most horrible form. And it happened that the king was not present. Nobody could see a way of rescuing the queen without laying hands on her, and the attendants had too much regard for their own lives to take any chances at heroism. They gazed down at the floundering, shrieking queen and discussed the etiquette for the occasion. After awhile the shrieks ceased, and the discussion was changed to the rules of etiquette connected with the fishing out of her body. The court mourned the queen's death for many days, but there was one consolation—the rules of etiquette had been observed to the letter.

Etiquette has always been an awe-inspiring influence at the court of Russia, and by no one were its details more rigidly observed than by Prince Gortchakoff, who was prime minister under Alexander II. One day Lord Dufferin asked the prince whether the emperor's cold was better. With bowed head and eyes half closed, the prime minister replied in a reverent voice, "His majesty has deigned to feel a little better this morning." The Duke de Morny, half brother of Napoleon III. and ambassador to Russia, said of Gortchakoff that he seemed to pur when he spoke of any creature at court, even of the Grand Olga's monkey.—New York Times.

An Indian on Art.

A member of San Francisco's art fraternity had the good luck to visit Washington some weeks ago and behold the famous Congressional library in all its rare and exquisite beauty. While he stood at the foot of the great staircase, lost in admiration of the noble architectural lines of the building and the harmonious loveliness of the wonderful bas-reliefs and friezes, he observed an Indian, black haired, piercing eyed and blanketed after the fashion of his ancestors, enter the vast rotunda. Walking slowly to the center of the entrance hall, he advanced still farther to the staircase, placed one grimy hand gingerly upon the broad balustrade, and, turning to the artist, who had perceived all his actions with a lively curiosity, he opened his lips and spoke three words only, but it is doubtful if the wonderful library will ever echo words of greater or more unmixed appreciation. The Indian and the artist stood face to face, and the artist's eyes fell before the savage's question. He had asked simply, "Man make it?"—San Francisco Call.

Evolution

By NELLIE CRAVEY GILLMORE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Patricia turned from the window with a little shiver. The leaden sky had just released a hurricane of white feathers, and the rollicking flames in the great brass andironed fireplace magnetized her into the depths of a huge armchair, where she could think comfortably.

At last she drew in her breath with a deep sigh. She had reached a decision. Her face was very pale from the past hour's conflict of emotions, and her lips drew a determined red line above her dimpled chin.

She glanced at the clock—4! She had promised him her answer by 6, and it was still to be written and dispatched. She dashed a refractory tear from her eye and resolutely crossed the room to a writing table. The transient tenderness died from her face as she seized a pen from the rack and hastily dashed down the superscription.

The Elms, March 2.

My Dear Frierson—Certainly not. I can never be your wife after last night's revelation. Fortunately for me, I've quite outgrown my taste for fairy tales, and nothing you might say could alter my determination in view of the evidence of my own eyes. Very sincerely yours,

PATRICIA THURSTON.

As she reread the words some of the savage indignation that had come into Patricia's face while she was writing them died out. She pondered a moment, then tore the sheet in two and tossed it into the wastebasket. The clock struck the half hour after 4. She took up the pen again and wrote painstakingly:

The Elms, Thursday.

Dear Mr. Frierson—After considering the matter thoroughly I have come to the decision that I cannot marry you. There are so many things that make for a happy union, and, lacking in many of the requisites, I fear it would be an unwise step. For instance, two people just entering upon matrimony should in all cases begin by being able to trust each other implicitly.

I shall return all your letters by express. Please do likewise. Yours sincerely,

PATRICIA T.

She signed her name with a hysterical flourish and ran her eyes quickly through the curt sentences. Unconsciously her red lip curved upward.

"Too sentimental," she sniffed and crumpled the paper in her hand. The clock ticked with warning insistence. Without hesitating she drew up a fresh sheet and began:

Thursday Evening.

Dear William—Of course after practicing a willful deception upon me it is out of the question for me to further consider your offer of marriage. We should never be happy with the knowledge of it between us even if I could go to the length of overlooking it, which I cannot. After all, it would have been simple for you to have told me that you had a pretty young aunt who was coming to spend the week. Fancy the shock I experienced upon seeing you kiss a girl—stranger—at the Clanceys' last night! And so farewell.

PATRICIA.

She stared at the composition a second, the words running together in an aggravating fashion. At last her gaze cleared. But how ridiculous! The next thing he'd be thinking she was—jealous! She must be more dignified, more impersonal. Once more she wrote:

"DEAREST BILLY," SHE WROTE, "COME."

My Dear Billy—No, do not get the ring. We have made a mistake. Let us still be friends. Cordially, PATTY.

P. S.—By the way, I never knew before that your grandmother had been twice married. Strange you didn't mention it all these years. There's quite a difference in your mother's and Miss Heasley's age, isn't there?

The clock announced 5. Patricia glanced around, startled, to assure herself with her eyes that her ears had heard aright. In the tall mirror opposite that stretched from floor to ceiling she got a transitory glimpse of her face. It was pathetically altered. Her eyes, purple ringed with misery, stared mockingly back at her. The self contempt that swept over her hardened them instantly. Anything written under the influence of such an expression could not be other than absurd. With a petulant hand she swept the still unblotted lines aside and scratched laconically:

Billy—All is over between us. My answer is "No." Come for your letters and don't fail to bring mine. P. T.

She folded the note with cold, dispassionate fingers. A pang went through her. She caught in her breath with a dry, audible sound. "Unexpected; telegram indeed!" she mused angrily. "I don't believe a word of it."

The striking of the half hour nerved her to seal the letter quickly and address it to "1918 West Twenty-ninth Street, Mr. William K. Frierson, City."

She stamped it with deadly deliberation and pressed the bell. While waiting for the messenger she sat staring absently at the name she had written—his name; written it for the one hundred and seventeenth—and the last time. She continued to stare at the stereotyped address through a blurred vision. After all, perhaps she had not expressed herself just right; at least, she might have been more courteous, as this was the end. There were still thirty minutes of grace. The chauffeur, running at speed limit, could make the distance in twenty!

She rose and threw the letter into the fire, then with a funny little gleam in her eyes watched it curl and blacken and sift to nothingness. She turned toward the writing table again, her thoughts shaping themselves rapidly and clearly. It was positively her last chance to be diplomatic, firm—final. Crimson flags were waving in her cheeks; twin sparks had kindled blue flames in her eyes; her breath came and went in little jerks. But her hands were steady as a die. She wrote:

Dearest Billy—Come. PAT.

A Real Nice Husband.

During the reign of Queen Anne there lived in Jermyn street, London, a Mr. and Mrs. Howe, who were a well to do and apparently a very happy couple. After eight years of married life Mr. Howe suddenly disappeared, and nothing was heard of him for seventeen years, during which period his two children had died and Mrs. Howe had left her Jermyn street residence for a small house off Golden square. The extraordinary part of this real life romance is that Mr. Howe had never gone away from London at all and lived at Westminster under another name. Disguised, he attended St. James', Piccadilly, every Sunday and saw his wife there. Mr. Howe also frequented a coffee house which almost faced Mrs. Howe's house, and thus he could watch her movements. When seventeen years had elapsed Mrs. Howe received an anonymous letter in which the writer desired her to meet him in Birdcage walk the next day, as he had something important to tell her. Mrs. Howe went as requested and there met her long lost husband. Mr. Howe never explained the motives which had prompted his disappearance, and Mrs. Howe wisely did not press the subject. The reunited couple lived for many years after their separation happily, which is only one of the many cases in everyday life where truth is stranger than fiction.

What Did He Mean?

Mike Maloney's wife was an invalid, and the doctor had been doing all sorts of things for her, changing the medicine so often that poor Mike's income would scarcely reach and make both ends meet, and at last the doctor said that his wife must go to a warmer climate.

ANY remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves.

The nerve centers require nutrition. If the digestion is impaired, the nerve centers become anemic, and indigestion is the result.

Peruna is not a nervine nor a stimulant. It benefits the nerves by benefiting digestion.

Peruna frees the stomach of catarrhal congestions and normal digestion is the result.

In other words, Peruna goes to the bottom of the whole difficulty, when the disagreeable symptoms disappear.

Mrs. J. G. Jamison, 61 Marchant street, Watsonville, Cal., writes:

"I was troubled with my stomach for six years. I tried many kinds of medicine, also was treated by three doctors.

"They said that I had nervous dyspepsia. I was put on a liquid diet for three months.

"I improved under the treatment, but as soon as I stopped taking the medicine, I got bad again.

"I took the medicine for two years, then I got sick again and gave up all hopes of getting cured.

"I saw a testimonial of a man whose case was similar to mine being cured by Peruna, so I thought I would give it a trial.

"I procured a bottle at once and commenced taking it. I have taken several bottles and am entirely cured.

"I have gained in strength and feel like a different person. I believe Peruna is all that is claimed for it."

Nervines, such as coal tar preparations, are doing a great deal of harm. Sleep medicines and headache powders are all alike,—heart depressants, and should not be used. The nerves would be all right, if the digestion were good. Peruna corrects the digestion.

The Clinton - Centre League.

Two games of ball were played in the Clinton—Centre league Wednesday afternoon. One was at Woolrich where the Orvis Mountaineers defeated the Woolpickers by the score of 11 to 4. A home run and several three base hits were features of the game. The Mill Hall team played on the home grounds and lost to the Howard Millionaires by the score of 5 to 3. The Millionaires were in the lead throughout the game but the Ponies tied them in the ninth inning and the visiting team was unable to score until the 12 h inning when they made two more runs. The Millionaires should have had the game sooner as on several occasions they had the bases filled with no outs but were unable to get any of their men in before the side was put out. Wieland of the Millionaires made a three base hit.

Was He a Bellefonter?

One evening last week when the Salvation Army was holding its street meeting in front of the Bush House Captain Heather noticed a man sitting at the office door listening to and watching the devoted little band with intense and undivided interest. All through the service he remained there drinking in the songs they sang and the words of testimony that were offered. The man was unknown to the captain and after the tambourine was passed he was wondering if the man lived in Bellefonte. The simple services had apparently made a profound impression on him for when one of the good sisters of the Army passed the little tambourine he unostentiously took out his wallet and taking therefrom a five dollar bill laid it on the tambourine. The captain and the others of the Army felt very grateful to one who had been so generous and had gone his way before they could express their appreciation of his liberality. A few more persons as charitable as this one would materially assist the Army in their work in this place. Captain Heather stated that this was the first instance of the kind experienced in Bellefonte and hoped that it would not be the last.

When a boy turns his bulging pocket inside out we marvel at the quantity and variety of articles he has stowed away. Odd lengths of string, marbles, a horse-chestnut, a top, brass nails, hickory nuts, an apple, and many more articles are garnered by this "snapper up of unconsidered trifles." We think the collection must be hard on a boy's pocket. And it is. But do we ever think of the variety and miscellany of the substances we put into the pocket of our stomach? There's the apple and the nuts, and things besides quite as indigestible as brass nails and with no more food value than so many marbles. And yet we wonder that the stomach "gives out." When the stomach breaks down under the strain of careless eating and irregular meals it can be perfectly and permanently restored to health and strength by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The action of this medicine on the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition is so marked, that relief from disease is at once experienced, and the headaches, liver "troubles," kidney disorders, skin eruptions and other symptoms of a diseased stomach are quickly cured. Dr. Pierce's medicines are purely vegetable —no alcohol or habit forming drugs enter into their composition.

Badly Burned by Powder

Last Friday while two sons of John Halderman, who resides at the A. G. Morris lime kilns, near Fillmore, were badly burned while playing with powder. The boys, Charles and Alph were watching the cows on the hill near the quarries and it is not known whether they got the powder themselves or whether several Italians got it for them at the quarry. The latter, however, is the supposition. While playing with the powder and attempting to set it off an explosion occurred in which the two boys were severly burned and the condition of Charlee, who was brought to the Bellefonte hospital, is such that his recovery is regarded as doubtful. The other boy whose burns were not so severe in getting along nicely at his home.

The morning service was specially in connection with Flag Day, the Daughters of the American Revolution of the Bellefonte Chapter, marching into the Church in a body. Dr. Platts preaching a most appropriate sermon for the occasion. The music also being particularly fine, and the selections very patriotic. The entire body of the Church was beautifully decorated with flags, flowers, and potted plants.

Being also known as Children's Day, the evening service was especially given up to the Children of the Sabbath School. With an address from Dr. Platts. The several parts rendered exclusively by the children in the service, and the music with the assistance of the orchestra, made the occasion particularly interesting.

Methodist.

The annual children's day in the Methodist church was observed by the children of the Sunday school in the morning at 10:30 o'clock. The little folks were well trained for the parts they had on the program, the recitations, songs and exercises being very appropriate for the occasion. At the opening of the service several infants were baptized. Being also flag day the day was also observed with services appropriate to that occasion. The church was beautifully decorated with evergreens and flowers and the national flag in great profusion. In the evening the pastor preached an object sermon to the children. He told the children the story of the serpent in the garden and two or three other Bible illustrations where serpents were mentioned, gradually leading them up to the text found in Proverbs 23: 31-32. He also demonstrated to them the manner in which alcohol will cook an egg. The children were much pleased with the illustrations and experiments shown them by the pastor.

Reformed.

Children's Day services were held in the Reformed church Sunday at 10 30 a. m. The church was very elaborately adorned with screens made of laurel, flowers and a large number of flags filled the front of the church. The school marched into the church singing the processional "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The primary children occupied seats on a raised platform and many of them carried flags. The service "An Ensign for the People" consisted of spirited music and a number of recitations, the pastor, Rev. Ambrose M. Schmidt made a short address on the significance of the flag and Christian Patriotism. The offerings amounting to $20 50 were for Sunday school missions.

Evangelical.

Bellefonte Tent No. 100 Knights of thee Maccabees attended services in a body at the United Evangelical Church in the morning when the pastor, Rev. J. F. Hower, delivered a timely sermon to the members of that order.

United Brethern.

Services in the United Brethern church Sunday morning were in charge of Presiding Elder Rev. J. S. Foulton, of the Allegheny district. Mr. Foulton is a very forceful speaker and his sermon was full of interest.

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good;" and Doctor Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper —no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine it is unequaled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy—one to three a dose. Much imitated but never equaled.

FROM EARTH TO SUN.

It Is 92,876,795 Miles, With a Possible Error of 56,000 Miles.

For a long time astronomers have been trying to measure accurately the distance from the earth to the sun. Once ascertained, this would serve as a unit of measure in exploring the starry realms. The stupefying precision with which these learned men announce the goings and the comings of celestial bodies seems to indicate that an error of a few million miles more or less in the measurement of distances makes little difference in the perfection of their calculations.

In the method of direct measurement the center of the sun is sighted from two points as far apart as possible. This gives the base and two angles of a triangle, the apex of which is the center of the sun, and it is only a simple calculation in trigonometry to obtain the third angle and the height. But this measuring process is very inexact, for in such a vast distance an infinitesimal error in measuring one of the angles would produce an enormous error in the result.

Kepler showed that if we could measure the exact distance from the earth to one other planet it would give us data enough from which to calculate the distance from the sun to all other bodies of the solar system, and since his day this indirect method of measurement has been employed, the distances from the earth to Mars and Venus, the nearest planets, being the principal objects of the attention of astronomers. The results obtained until a few years ago left a possible error of about 1,000,000 miles.

In 1898 Professor Witt of the Berlin observatory discovered the planet Eros, which at certain times is only a few million miles from us. Fifty-eight astronomers at once took concerted measurements, and the Abbe Moreux has just published the first results of this gigantic work, which represents about 35,000 observations through the telescope and 40,000 with a camera, all at the expense of the French government.

The distance from the earth to the sun is proved by the time of these observations to be 92,876,795 miles, with a possible error of about 56,000 miles, which error, comments the reverend astronomer, is insignificant, for it is just in the proportion of one in 1,660. The abbe promises us that when all the observations on Eros shall have been tabulated the possible error will be reduced to about 28,000 miles.—New York World.

An Interesting Prophecy.

"In my papers a few days ago I ran across an extremely interesting prophecy," said John Smith of 1217 West Twelfth street, "and which possesses genuine interest in view of the fact that, according to its terms, the end of the world is fast approaching. This prophecy was in the hands of William Miner eight years ago. He was a cousin of David G. Phillips of Louisville, Ky., who gave the prophecy to the public. It relates that in 1824 there lived in Louisville a Presbyterian minister named Balden, who prophesied that in 1846 and 1847 there would be a three years' war in the United States and another war in 1861 to 1865; that in 1871 there would be war in Europe, in 1887 to 1893 the greatest destruction of property ever known and in 1913 or 1914 would come the final dissolution of all things. All but the last of the prophecies have been fulfilled."—Des Moines Register and Leader.

Big Mouth and Loud Voice.

On the French coast there soon will be a lighthouse equipped with a monster mouth and a compressed air device which will enable it to shout in tones of thunder to ships on the horizon. Dr. Marage of Paris is the inventor. It will be an exact imitation of the human throat and mouth, with an air pump for lungs. Teeth, lips, jawbones and all are imitated exactly. With a mouth six feet from corner to corner, it is estimated that the artificial voice of the lighthouse will be understood from three to six miles away, according to weather conditions. Mouths of this size are to be placed beneath the lens of the new French lighthouse. As steamers come over the horizon from Africa or America and are sighted one of its mouths will turn seaward and bellow "Hello!"

An Eloquent Sicilian.

Cavaliere Grasso, one of the Sicilian actors now in London, at a luncheon given in his honor recently made a speech to his hosts, a part of which has been translated as follows: "Would that I were a dove, its wings laden with diamonds, that I might scatter them over you. Fain would I be your dawn, herald of a golden future. Fain would I be your twilight haunted by happy memory. I would be your sun, to hold all in my embrace, to melt the snows of your winter with the fire of my art into limpid streams, chiming as they flow. I would be the springtime, bringing to you fresh happiness and tenderness of love. I would be the spring, the twilight, the dawn, the sun, the dove, all together—your Giovanni!"

Facts Versus Terms.

"I've a terrible toothache. What's good for it?"

"Nonsense! You've no toothache. It's simply imagination."

"Well, confound it, what's good for imagination?"—Boston Transcript.

Horrible Suspicion.

Hoyle.

Hoyle was not really the inventor of whist, although often so stated to be, but he was the first who introduced scientific whist to the public. A recent authority says that very little is known of Hoyle's personal history except that he was a barrister by profession and held the post of registrar of the prerogative in Ireland. He was born in 1670 and died in Cavendish square in 1767 at the advanced age of ninety-seven years. He received the sum of £1,000 from his publisher for his treatise on whist, which ran through five editions in one year and was extensively pirated. Hoyle is said to have given lessons in whist at a guinea a lesson. One of his great points was the calculation of probabilities at various stages of the rubber. This at first was deemed so important in guiding players that a famous mathematician used to frequent the coffee houses (the old substitute for the modern clubs) and give his opinion on the state of the odds at any stage in a game of whist in return for a small fee from the players.—Glasgow Times.

Crossing the Ocean.

The following bits of conversation may be heard several thousand times each day:

"I think those people down in the steerage have a much better time than we do. But don't they look just like so many animals?"

"Don't those clouds over there look just like land?"

"Somebody said we aren't far from an iceberg, but I don't know whether it's so or not. You hear so many false reports on shipboard."

"Have you met the captain yet? I hope you didn't ask him any foolish questions, poor man!"

"No; I haven't seen a whale yet, but there were lots of porpoises around the ship today."

"Who is that man? I haven't seen him before. He must have come on board during the night." (Always funny.)

"Did the postman bring you anything this morning?" (Sure of a howl.)

"Is this your first trip to Europe? My, but you have a treat in store!"—Princeton Tiger.

As Arranged For Older Children.

Miss Mary was the possessor of a diminutive and immature specimen of the Ovis aires, a wool bearing and ruminant quadruped, whose flesh is highly esteemed by persons to whose gustatory organs its flavor is agreeable.

The shaggy and agglomerated filaments constituting in their collective capacity its natural outer covering, integument or garment presented to the vision a surface absolutely etiolated and albified and rivaling in immaculateness the lustrous mantle of crystallized vapor that commonly characterizes the winter landscape.

And to whatsoever locality, contiguous or remote, whither Mary's vagrant fancy, the call of duty or, perchance, the parental mandate impelled her, when not otherwise engaged, to betake herself, this juvenescent representative of the genus Ovis aires, with a fidelity remarkable in one so immature and inexperienced, could be counted upon with absolute and entire certainty to accompany her.—Chicago Tribune.

Fortune For Forgers.

The last person to suffer death for forgery in London was a Thomas Maynard, who was executed on Dec. 31, 1829. It was not, however, until 1832 that the death penalty for the crime was replaced by transportation, though even then an exception was made in the case of forging or altering a will. This exception was not removed from the statute book until 1837. In the days of good Queen Bess a forger of deeds was very severely dealt with. He had to stand in the pillory; his ears were cut off, his nose slit, and he was branded with hot irons. If he survived these ordeals he was doomed to imprisonment for the rest of his days, and everything he possessed in the world was forfeited to the crown. Surely death would have been far more merciful.

An Iron Tip.

"Well, just tell the class what your information is on that point."

"So."

"You—you are temperamentally impossible," roared the first angry man.

"And you," replied the second, getting red in the face, "are temperamentally inconceivable."—Philadelphia Ledger.

"Surely she must have some favorite flower?"

"No; I don't think so. Anything will please her—that is, anything that's out of season."—Kansas City Journal.

Wrestling With a Tiger.

Two brothers, Khuda Bakhs and Shaikh Abdul Ghani of Moradabad, were dispatched to Rampur on an errand, and while entering a grove at Khadpura, says the Indian Daily Telegraph, a tiger sprang upon Khuda Bakhs, who, being an athlete, warded off the blow aimed at him with his right hand and caught one of the paws with the other and maintained his hold, though the tiger was mauling the other hand.

Abdul Ghani now rushed up with a stout stick, which he forced down the tiger's throat, making it release his brother's hand, when Khuda Bakhs seized another paw with his wounded hand, forcing both paws back. He wrestled with the tiger, keeping it down by sheer force, while Abdul Ghani killed it with his lathi.

The tiger was carried by the brothers to his highness the nawab of Rampur, "who kept the skin as a memento and sent Khuda Bakhs to the state dispensary for treatment."

Peculiarity of Snakes.

A snake tamer who had trained a serpent to follow him around the house and even out of doors happened one day to take it with him to a strange place. The snake, unused to the locality, suddenly seemed to forget all his training and, escaping into the bushes, resisted capture with bites and every indication of wildness. When caught it at once resumed its same habits. This tendency to become wild immediately upon obtaining their freedom and to again become tame when caught is said to be a peculiarity of snakes.—New York Tribune.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

BE STRONG.

Be strong!
We are not here to play, to dream, to drift.
We have hard work to do and loads to lift.
Shun not the struggle; face it. 'Tis God's gift.

Be strong!
Say not the days are evil—who's to blame?—
And fold the hands and acquiesce—oh, shame!
Stand up, speak out, and bravely, in God's name.

Be strong!
It matters not how deep intrenched the wrong,
How hard the battle goes, the day how long,
Faint not, fight on! Tomorrow comes the song.

The Dog Wasn't Touched.

"Madam," said the conductor as he punched a ticket, "I am very sorry, but you can't have your dog in this car. It is against the rules."

"I shall hold him in my lap all the way," she replied, "and he will not disturb any one."

"That makes no difference," said the conductor. "Dogs must ride in the baggage car. I'll take and fasten him for you."

"Don't you touch my dog, sir!" exclaimed the young lady excitedly. "I will trust him to no one," and with indignant tread she marched to the baggage car, tied her dog and said: "Remember, please, I don't want a soul here to touch my dog or untie him. You understand?"

The baggage crew said they did.

As the train approached her station the young lady, hailing the conductor, asked, "Is my dog all right?"

"I don't know, miss," replied the conductor.

"Don't know?" she replied. "Why don't you know? It's your business to know. You haven't touched him or untied him?"

"No; we didn't touch or untie him, and that's just it. You tied him to a trunk checked for two stations back. The train had to be put off, and so we took the dog off with the trunk!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

A Prophecy Fulfilled.

Roulle, one of the early fathers of chemistry in France, drew crowds of enthusiastic students to his classroom. "Gentlemen," he said on one occasion, "you see the caldron on this brazier. If I were to cease stirring a single moment an explosion would ensue which would blow us all into the air."

In addressing the students Rouelle actually forgot to stir. There was a horrible crash, the windows blew out, and some of the walls went down, while several were blown bodily into the neighboring garden. No one was killed, and the only damage sustained by Rouelle himself was the loss of his wig.

An Ideal Sitter.

A Washington artist, while sketching in North Carolina, was one day in search of a suitable background of dark pines for a picture he had planned. At last he found the precise situation he was seeking, and, best of all, there chanced to be a pretty detail in the figure of an old colored woman in the foreground.

The artist asked the old woman to remain seated until he had sketched her. She assented with the greatest good nature, but in a few minutes asked how long the artist would be. "Oh, only about a quarter of an hour," he answered.

Three minutes or so later the old darky again inquired—this time with manifest anxiety—how long the operation of sketching would take.

"Not long," was the reassuring reply. "But why do you ask so anxiously?" "Oh, nuthin', sah," the old woman hastened to respond, "only I's sittin' on an ant hill, sah."—Judge's Library.

The Glass Snake.

The slowworm is the snake which country people tell you has the peculiar property of breaking itself into bits, each piece afterward surviving. The truth differs slightly from the legend. The slowworm is a timid creature and when first captured tightens all its muscles, thus reducing itself to a remarkably rigid state, in which condition it will no doubt snap like a dry twig; but, needless to say, only the upper and vital portions survive the ordeal.—London Globe.

Vanishing France.

Old France is slowly disappearing, and its local customs, picturesque costumes and the language peculiar to its ancient provinces will very soon become nothing more than precious souvenirs preserved in faithful memories or related in works of tradition, which will charm our descendants.—Petit Parisien.

A Slight Difference.

What is the difference between a jeweler and a jailer? One sells watches and the other watches cells.

King Snob.

Richard Nordhausen in "Kunstwart" enlarges on the power of a new monarch whom he calls "King Snob." "Snob," he says, using the English word despite the German emperor's request to omit the use of foreign words, "makes our fashions not only in our theaters and our bookstores, but even decrees at the art exhibitions which pictures shall be a la vogue, for, unseen, he occupies a place on the jury. Snob indicates also which of the composers are 'great.' Snob creates all the art fashions which have their origin in the large cities. We should not be deceived. Of the imposing artistic community which makes the laws for the great cities of Germany seven-eighths regard art with the eyes of the 'know nothing.' They crowd to the front the men with big heads and legs like matches and hinder the progress of those whose talent is not supported by clan and bell. This power destroys culture." The writer makes a powerful plea against the rule of "King Snob" and "snobismus."

Boone's Portrait In Oil.

There never was but one oil portrait of Daniel Boone painted from life, and that was by Chester Harding, a distinguished artist of Boston, who came to Missouri in June, 1820, and painted it in the residence of Flanders Callaway, Boone's son-in-law, where Boone was then living, near the village of Marthasville, in Warren county. The Rev. James E. Welch, one of the oldest Baptist preachers in the state and father of Alkman Welch, attorney general of Missouri during Governor Gamble's administration, sat in Boone's bed behind Boone for him to lean against while Harding painted the picture, the pioneer being too feeble to sit alone. Harding's portrait of Boone now hangs in the state capitol at Frankfort, Ky.—Kansas City Star.

One Hair Astray.

A guest at a certain fashionable hotel recently had a grouch. He carried it to the proprietor.

"Look here," he said, "things around here are just about as rotton as they make them. When I went to lunch today I found hair in the ice cream, hair in the honey and hair in the apple sauce. Now, what do y' think o' that? Is that a good hotel?"

"Well," replied the genial proprietor, "I can explain the hair in the ice cream. That likely came from the shaving of the ice. And I suppose that the hair in the honey came off the comb. But I don't understand about the hair in the apple sauce. I bought those apples myself, and they were every one Bald-wins."—Columbus Dispatch.

Reverent, Though Drunk.

The large majority of Russians of the orthodox faith will not pass a church or shrine in the street without uncovering their heads and crossing themselves. Travelers have seen intoxicated men who were staggering along observe this ceremony, and in the case of those who were too helplessly fuddled to walk home the friend or relative who has accompanied a tipsy companion in a sledge or drosky has, while holding him in the vehicle with one hand, performed for him the sign of the cross with the other when passing a sacred place.—London Chronicle.

Three Wives.

The Beggar—Please, sir, will you kindly assist a poor man who has three wives to support? The Pedestrian—Why, do you mean to say you are a bigamist? The Beggar—Oh, no, sir. Two of them are the wives of my sons-in-law.

A Woman's Health

Is a heritage too sacred to be experimented with. For her peculiar and delicate ailments only medicines of known composition and which contain no alcohol, narcotics, or other harmful or habit-forming drugs should be employed. The one medicine which fulfills all these requirements is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a remedy with a record of over forty years of cures to recommend it; a remedy, the makers of which print its formula on every bottle-wrapper and attest its completeness and correctness under oath; a remedy devised and adapted to woman's delicate constitution by an educated physician—an experienced specialist in woman's diseases; a remedy, every ingredient of which has received the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar diseases; a remedy which has more bona-fide cures to its credit than any other sold by druggists for woman's special requirements. It is not given away in the form of "trial bottles" to be experimented with, but is sold at a fair price by all dealers in medicines.

Delicate, weak, nervous women should especially shun the use of alcoholic medicines which, from their stimulating and exhilerating effects may seem, for a time, to do good, but which from the inevitable effects of the alcohol in shrinking up the red corpuscles of the blood are sure to do great and lasting harm in the long run. Besides they beget a craving for stimulants which is most deplorable.

Only invigorating and nerve strengthening effects can follow the use of this famous medicine for women. It can not possibly do harm in any state or condition of the system. It has been carefully adapted to woman's needs by an experienced physician—a specialist in their diseases. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

If a woman has bearing down, or dragging pains, low down in the abdomen, or pelvis, backache, frequent headaches, dizzy or fainting spells, is nervous and easily startled, has gnawing feeling in stomach, sees imaginary floating specks, or spots before her eyes, has melancholia, or "blues," or a weakening disagreeable drain from pelvic organs, she can make no mistake by resorting to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will invigorate and tone up the whole system and especially the pelvic organs.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Perscription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic, "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For over-worked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

No woman suffering from any of the above symptoms can afford to accept any secret nostrum or medicine of unknown composition, as a substitute for a medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is OF KNOWN COMPOSITION and has a record of over forty years of cures and sells more largely to-day than ever before. Its makers withhold no secrets from their patients, believing open publicity to be the very best guaranty of merit.

Dr. Pierce invites all suffering women to consult him by letter free of charge. All letters of consultation are held as strictly private and sacredly confidential and all answers are returned in plain, sealed envelopes. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

If a cough once gets into your system it acts on every muscle and fibre of the body and makes you ache all over. It especially affects the intestines and makes you constipated, so in order to get rid of a cold thoroughly and without delay you should not take anything that will tend to constipate. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts upon the bowels and thereby drives the cold out of the system. It contains no opiates—it is pleasant to take and is highly recommended for children. THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough "cures"? Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

STEEL CUT STARTS BOOM

Orders Started 3 Days After Cut Was Made

TRUST MILLS TO START

It is Estimated That Resumption Will Put 45,000 Men to Work in the Pittsburg District

COAL OPERATORS ALSO GET BUSY

Pittsburg, June 12.—Although the cut in steel prices has been announced only three days, sufficient orders were assured the United States Steel Corporation to-night to justify the sending out of orders for the manning of virtually all the combine plants in the Pittsburg district on Monday, July 6.

The condition of some of the plants will delay resumption in full for the first two weeks, but as soon as the work can be whipped into shape the old crews will be put on. Orders to the clerical forces to report July 1, went out to a dozen idle mills to-night and this afternoon officials at Pittsburg headquarters authorized the announcement of the general resumption July 6. In fact July vacations of superintendents and other officials who are on yearly salaries have been declared off until later in the summer.

The resumption will put to work 45,000 men in this district alone. The first impetus of the new movement has been felt for the past two days by the bituminous coal operators, who have received a sudden influx of orders for fuel from the big plants. The Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio Railroads have ordered out extra crews for next week to meet the sudden increase in shipments.

Independent operators, who have been running only part time, said tonight that they would increase their forces by the middle of July.

A Strange Combat.

A strange encounter, a fight between a cat on one side and two robins, assisted by several sparrows, on the other, was witnessed by a number of people on North Second street, Sunbury, Thursday morning, says the Daily Item.

A nest located upon the sill of a garret window contained several baby robins just getting ready to fly. In some manner one of the little ones fell from the nest and was able to fly only a short distance and then landed in some tall grass. The mother robin was on the alert to protect it and when a strange cat appeared near the location of the baby bird, the mother robin became so enraged that she flew on the cat's back and picked as hard as she was able. Papa robin also assisted in the attack and when three or four spunky little sparrows, always itching for a fight, joined in the attack helping the robins, the cat became so badly frightened that it ran away.

This is no nature fake story but sworn to by church members who witnessed it.

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE
CONTAINING HONEY AND TAR

An English Turf Tragedy.

Half an hour before the race for the Two Thousand Guineas of 1883 Prince Batthyany, who bred St. Simon and who was one of the most popular racing men of any time, was talking with Lord Cadogan in the luncheon room of the Jockey club stand at Newmarket, when he suddenly reeled and fell.

He was carried to Weatherby's office, and doctors were summoned, but the prince was beyond all human aid, and just before the bell rang for the race for which his colt, Galliard, brother of St. Simon, was first favorite he breathed his last.

A few minutes later "the clear blue sky rang with cheers and shouts as the horses came thundering along, which rose into a roar as Galliard won by a head," while behind the drawn blinds of Weatherby's office Galliard's owner, who had been looking forward so eagerly to this moment, was lying dead. It was owing to the death of his owner that Galopin's great son could not run in the Derby of 1884, which he would almost certainly have won.—St. James' Gazette.

Curing Snake Bites.

Considerable difference of opinion exists with regard to a trustworthy remedy for snake bites. Dr. Lauder Brunton advocates the use of permanganate of potash applied immediately. Mr. Greengrass of North Arcot district, Madras, however, as the result of various experiments states that acetic acid, even in the diluted form of vinegar, is an important and effectual remedy, and it can be applied effectually as long as an hour or an hour and a half after the bite. Cases of recovery from snake bites have followed the application of vinegar after such intervals. An incision must be made over the bite, as much of the poison as possible squeezed out, and then vinegar is to be injected. If the bite is on a limb, a ligature must be placed above it. Mr. Greengrass records twenty-nine cases of recovery from cobra bites by such a use of vinegar. The one failure which occurred was due to the fact that no incision had been made over the bite. A similar treatment is recommended for the stings of scorpions.—London Standard.

Downing Street, London.

The greatest street in the world is one of the smallest. This is Downing street, a dark little alley in the west of London. Here is the real center of the British empire, for it is at 10 Downing street that the premier has his official residence. Ever since Robert Walpole was the prime minister, 200 years ago, the heads of the government have made their homes in this "alley." American tourists usually go out of their way to gaze upon the dingy, almost repellent exterior of this lodge of diplomacy and national ambition, because Sir George Downing, who laid out the street and built the house therein, was of American ancestry, his mother belonging to the Winthrops of Massachusetts Bay Colony, and stands as the second graduate on the roster of Harvard college. After getting an American education he went to England and, seizing opportunity when it offered, became Oliver Cromwell's ambassador at The Hague.—Exchange.

Feeding the Stock.

The victim of the following story, told in Mrs. Henry W. Cole's "A Lady's Tour Around Monte Rosa," was possessed of a keen sense of humor. Otherwise his dignity might have been ruffled by the unconscious revelation which came to his ears. In the course of Mrs. Cole's travels she met the Rev. Robert Montgomery, the poet, who told her an incident of his early career in the pulpit. When he was first admitted to holy orders he was appointed curate in a rural Scotch district and lodged in the house of a small tenant farmer. Notwithstanding his office of clergyman the family did not appear to hold their boarder in high veneration, for one day he heard the woman servant call out to her mistress:

"Missis, shall I feed the pigs first or gie the mon his dinner?'

An Erratic Echo.

The late Sir John Leng had traveled in most quarters of the globe. On one occasion when visiting Spain he was asked at a certain spot by a traveling companion to test the powers of what was declared to be a wonderful echo. Sir John, slowly and deliberately, in ~~pomical tones uttered~~ the words, "Dun-dee Ad-ver-ti-ser," the name of the paper he owned. "Dundee Courier and Argus," the name of the opposition paper, came back as the echo! Sir John's friends had played him a trick.

Tea Drinking.

Tea drinking was regarded as one of the feminine vices of a hundred years ago. The Female Spectator of that period observes:, "The tea table costs more to support than would maintain two children at nurse. It is the utter destruction of all economy, the bane of good housewifery and the source of idleness."—London Mail.

Boy Accidentally Kills His Mother.

Mrs. Levi Seaman, who lived about one mile west of Hamburg, Pa., was accidentally shot and killed by her six-year-old son. The boy tried to pick up a shotgun. It was discharged, the shot entering his mother's back and penetrating the lungs.

Wild Parsnips Kill Two Boys.

Two sons of Jacob Garner, aged ten and twelve years, were found dead in a field at Hawthorne, near Kittaning, Pa., death having been caused by eating wild parsnips. A third boy is in a serious condition, but will recover.

Curiosity Not Stilled.

A certain Tombs prisoner landed in jail almost penniless. He was a man who had figured in a number of the town's shady transactions, and his name was pretty well known. A few days after his incarceration he wrote to a friend asking for a monthly allowance of $10 to be continued during his term of imprisonment. The friend, remembering past favors, remitted the amount each month during a period that covered two trials and the long time intervening. One day it occurred to him to inquire into the manner of expending the allowance. He supposed it was used to buy occasional extra meals, a few cigars and newspapers, but just as a matter of curiosity he asked for particulars. He found to his astonishment that the prisoner had never ordered an extra meal and had not smoked a cigar all the time he had been in jail.

"Then what in thunder," demanded the man, "have you been doing with that $10 a month?"

"I subscribed to two press clipping bureaus," replied the prisoner coolly. "You don't suppose, do you, that I am going to pass through this, the most critical time of my life, without finding out what everybody has got to say about me?"—New York Times.

The Star Chamber.

Perhaps the most beautiful and original scene of all in Mammoth cave is the star chamber. At a point in the well defined path one comes to the brow of a gentle declivity and notes that the roof of folded or fretted limestone had disappeared. The darkness is impervious to the rays of the lamps. "The star chamber," announces the guide, and, bidding his visitors to put their lights out and to look up, he disappears up a side passage. Slowly the darkness above lightens a little; then stars come out one by one and twinkle merrily as in a real sky. A comet shoots across the line of vision; then the glory of the Milky Way appears. The illusion is perfect and the explanation not far to seek.

The ceiling is heavily coated with manganese dioxide and has been pierced here and there with snowy crystals of gypsum. The guides go behind this ceiling, and the light from their lamps produces the effect of a miniature firmament with the crystals of gypsum for stars.—New York Post.

He Grasped the Idea.

"Tommy," said his teacher, "the words 'circumstantial evidence' occur in the lesson. Do you know what circumstantial evidence is?"

Tommy replied that he did not.

"Well, I will explain it to you by an illustration. You know we have a rule against eating apples in school. Suppose some morning I should see you in your seat with a book held up in front of your face. I say nothing, but presently I go around to where you are sitting. You are busily studying your lesson, but I find that your face is smeared, while under the edge of your slate I see the core of a freshly eaten apple.

"I should know just as well as if I had caught you at it that you have been eating an apple, although, of course, I did not see you do it. That is a case in which circumstantial evidence convicts you. Do you think you know what it is now?"

"Yes, ma'am," said Tommy. "It's eating apples in school." — Youth's Companion.

The Mormons.

The Book of Mormon appeared in 1830. Joseph Smith of Palmyra, N. Y., claimed that he had received it as a new Bible for all mankind. He began preaching Mormon doctrines, gathered followers, who migrated to Kirkland, O., and later to Missouri, whence they were driven out by their neighbors. They then went to Illinois, building the city of Nauvoo, and adopted polygamy, but they met with strong opposition there and finally settled at Salt Lake. They had hardly reached there before the foreign soil they had chosen was a part of the United States by a treaty with Mexico.

The Seven Wise Men.

The names and characteristic aphorisms of the seven wise men of ancient Greece are as follows: Solon of Athens, "Nothing in excess;" Theles of Miletus, "Suretyship brings ruin;" Pittacus of Mitylene, "Know thine opportunity;" Bias of Priene in Caria, "Too many workers spoil the work;" Chilon of Sparta, "Know thyself;" Cleobulus of Rhodes, "Moderation is the chief good," and Periander of Corinth, "Forethought in all things."

Simply Reversed.

Bill—I see he is trying to have the judge's sentence reversed.

Jill—What was the sentence?

"Ten dollars or ten days."

"Well, I don't see what good it would do to have it reversed."

"Why not?"

"Wouldn't ten days or $10 be just as bad?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Western.

Grasper (a very careful man)—No, I should never allow my daughter to marry a journalist. He always wastes one side of the paper. And still less should she wed a poet. He doesn't even go to the end of the line.

Went a Shade Better.

"You—you are temperamentally impossible," roared the first angry man.

"And you," replied the second, getting red in the face, "are temperamentally inconceivable."—Philadelphia Ledger.

And Expensive.

"Surely she must have some favorite flower?"

"No; I don't think so. Anything will please her—that is, anything that's out of season."—Kansas City Journal.

The Record in Bellefonte is a Unique One.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ill and is looking for relief and cure, better depend on the only remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve quickly—cure permanently. Bellefonté citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

Mrs. Emma J. Davis of E Logan St. Bellefonte, Pa. says; I have a great deal of confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills, and have already recommended them in a published testimonial in 1897. I told how I had been relieved of kidney complaint and backache which had kept me suffering for years. Doan's Kidney Pills did this for me when other remedies had failed. Whenever I feel any symptom of my old trouble I send to F. Potts Green's drug store for a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and it never requires more than a few doses to get me right."

A Liberal Corporation.

That the York Bridge Co., the contractor for the ill-fated Mifflinville bridge upon which eight men have so far lost their lives, is not a "soul-less corporation" was shown on Friday morning, when Boyd A. Musser, the secretary, who has been residing for the past year at Berwick and C. S. Lutteno, the general superintendent of construction, who has charge of the work at Mifflinville at the present time went to Bloomsburg, and after an interview, agreed to settle a pension upon Mrs. Bertha Johnson, widow of the late Jacob Johnson, who died from the effects of being struck across the back by a breaking steel cable, while at work on that bridge several months ago. The pension will be paid Mrs. Johnson as long as she remains a widow. Three other widows of victims of the unfortunate bridge operation have also been settled with on the same terms.

If one feels dull and spiritless, in the spring or early summer, they call it "Spring Fever". But there is no fever—usually. It is the after effect of our winter habits. The nerves are mostly at fault. Tired, worn-out nerves leave us languid, lifeless, and without spirit or ambition. A few doses of Dr. Shoop's Restorative will absolutely, and quickly change all of these depressing symptoms. The Restorative of course won't bring you back or full health in a day or two, but it will do enough in 48 hours to satisfy you that the remedy is reaching that "tiredspot". Druggists everywhere are advising its use as a splendid and prompt general tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the spoonful than any other known nerve or constitutional tonic. It sharpens a failing appetite, aids digestion, frees sluggish livers and kidneys, and brings new life, strength and ambition. Test it a few days and be convinced Sold by Green's Pharmacy

Madam Baker is not a fortune teller but a scientific palm reader and comes to this store well recommended. We are informed by several men that her services have been entirely satisfactory wherever she has been. Moreover if she was not a high class palmist it is hardly probable that this well known firm would engage her.

—The question as to why the business and labor depression does not result in a reduction of the necessities of life has been a puzzling one to many. Just now another peculiar instance can be cited in the markets and that is in regard to the price of butter and eggs. It is customary for the hen fruit to drop in price in the summer but such is not the case at present While butter can be purchased in some places for 18 cents the price of eggs is still holding on at the 20-cent notch. It is thought that the abundance of pasture has made butter lower in price than usual.
